

Creating Arguments

As discussed in class today, an argument is providing examples or rational reasons for or against an idea or actions with the intent to persuade.

We do this by reasoning, thinking or arguing in a logical manner.

Below, select 3 of the topics and write a good argument. Imagine you were arguing with someone you really wanted to persuade. Remember to give rational reasons and examples of why the person you are arguing with should be persuaded to your side. This is due Monday.

1. Staying out late on school night.
2. Going to an R rated movie.
3. Going out of the country for the summer.
4. Getting a tattoo.
5. Driving by yourself across the country.
6. Getting a phone (if you already have one, the newest phone).
